A Ripplite is a part of his school, community and country

Searching for his identity, the Broad Ripple High School pupil associates himself with his school, community, and country. Through school-sponsored trips throughout the country, the Ripplite gains a clear understanding of historical events and present-day ways of life. Closer to home, he is an integral part of a community providing not only employment but also the opportunity to take part in service projects and to enjoy recreational facilities. In his school, the Ripplite participates academically by sharing his ideas and learning from those of others, socially through extra-curricular activities and athletics, enthusiastically—always.

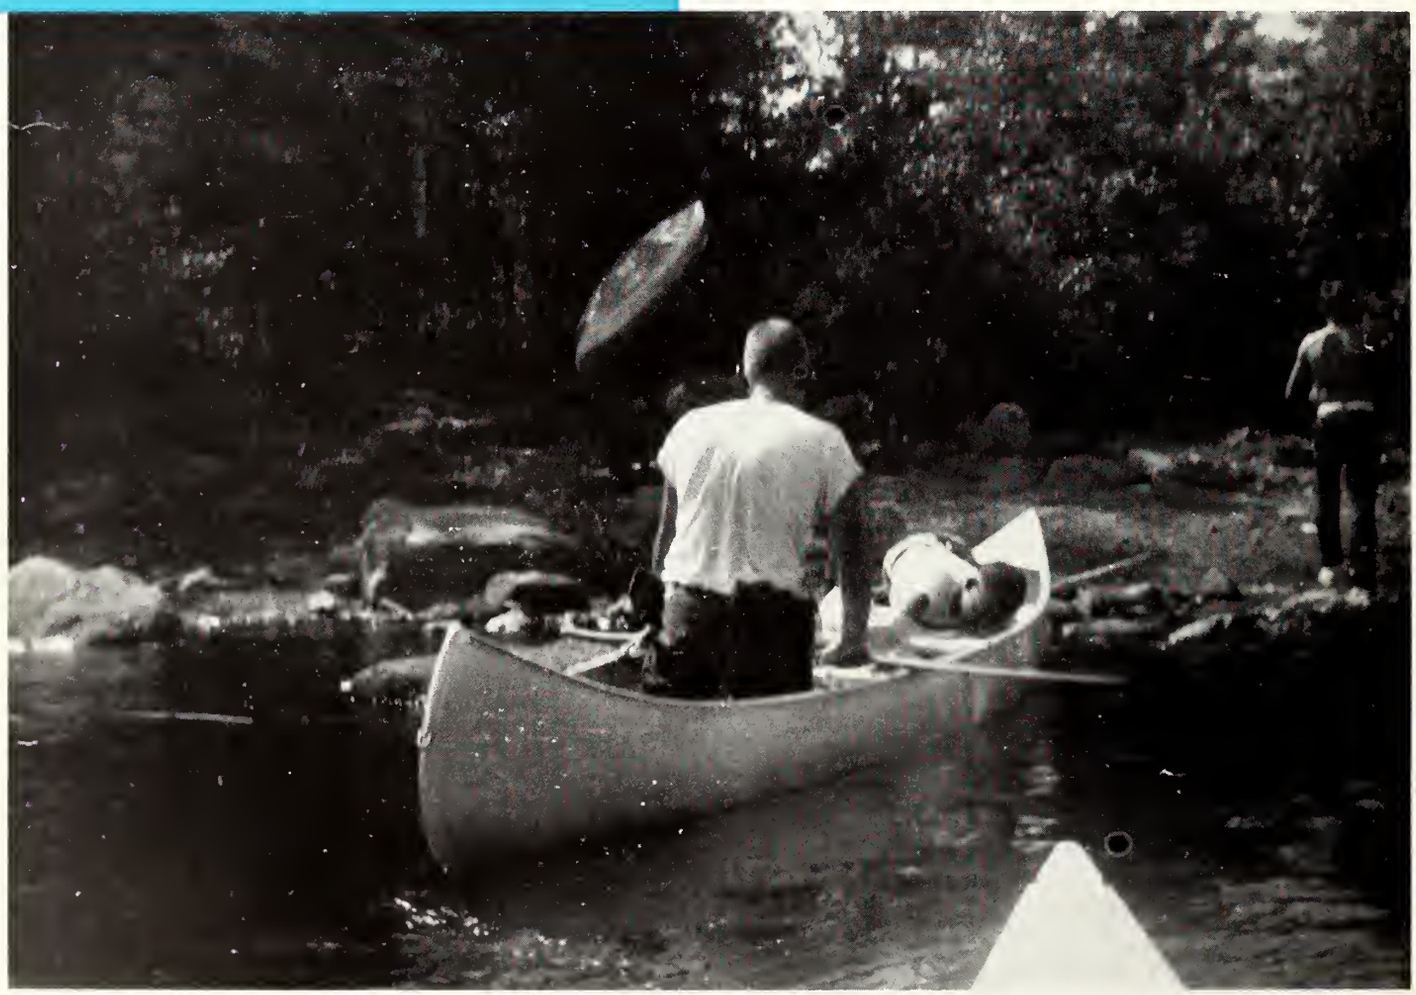
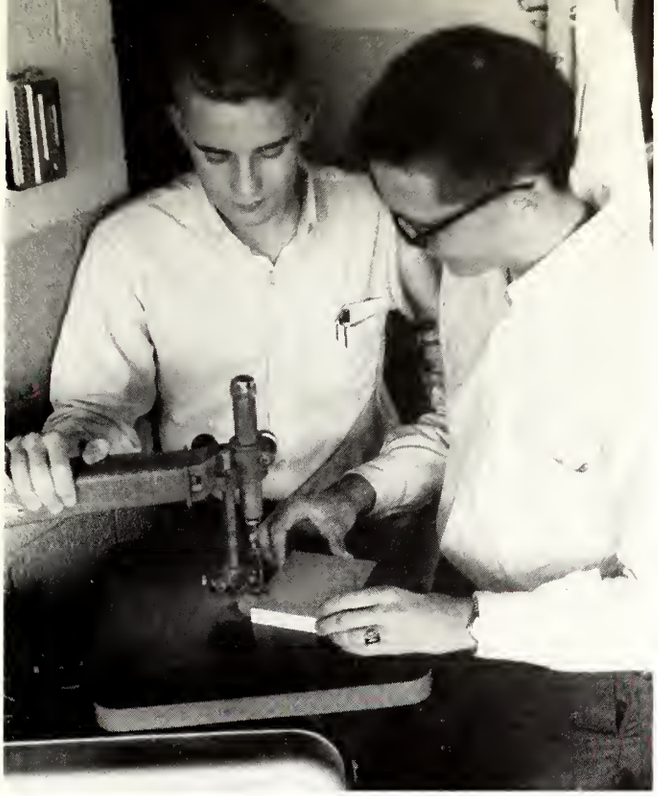
A Ripplite takes an active interest in his country and world

Military obligations are foremost in Joe Gatti's mind as he registers for the draft with Mrs. Josephine Wolf, school secretary.



Canadian wilderness inaccessible by all modern transportation except helicopter is the setting for a three-week canoe trip for seven Ripplites and their Explorer Scout troop.



Businessmen of the future, Steve Savage and Jeff Page use their woodworking ability for their Junior Achievement company.

Helping to fight leukemia, Jill Wood, Susan Voigt, and Shirley Elrod turn in the money they collected in the Teenagers' March.

Pride reflects in the faces of Vice-principal Harold Harding and Dave Lyman who traveled to Stillwater, Oklahoma, to receive a National Commission on Safety Education award.

Representing Ripple girls as fashion consultant at a local department store, Anne Brafford models new sportswear.

He works and lives interdependently with his community

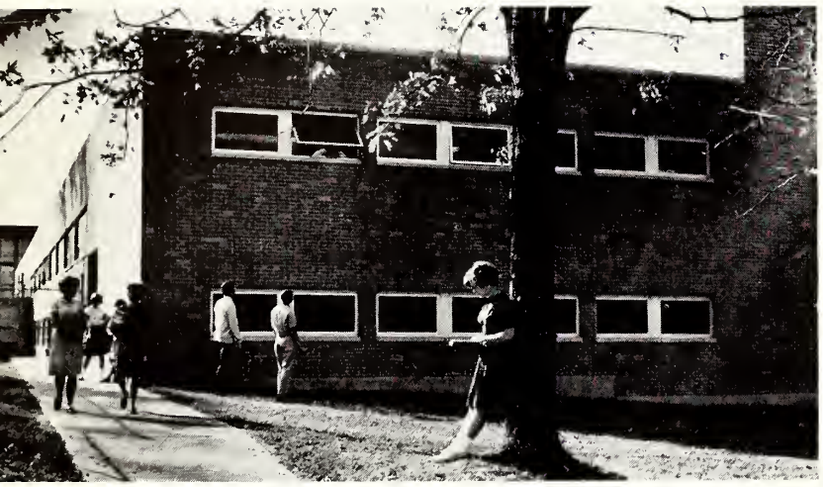
Accepting a contribution toward new uniforms for the marching band, Bob Wineriter continues the customs of Ripple's Band Tag Day.

Proudly boasting Ripple's name to the thousands of spectators lining the parade route, Ripple's color guard, marching corps, and band "strut their stuff" in the world-famous "500" Parade.

Bewildered Steve Griswell seeks help from vocational pamphlets in selecting a career that is both appealing and rewarding.

Good-natured laughter dominates the conversation of Anne Crosbie, Ann Schumacher, Tom Gavin, and Dave Houk.

But, above all, he is a working participant in the business of Broad Ripple High School



Although usually unnoticed by passers-by, the Haverford entrance to the new building is a familiar sight to the many Broad Ripple pupils who live to the east of the school.

Distributing and collecting towels from girls' physical education classes is the responsibility of advanced pupils Judy Westfall, Janet Donnelly, and Sindee Clark, who serve as assistants.

Science department assistant Ben Austin replaces chemicals used in class experiments.

Silhouetted by the light from the breezeway between the old and new buildings, Mark Axelrod and Judy Westfall pause for a few minutes after classes to discuss the day's events.

Scenery crew members Beth Stanfill, Steve Pratt, and Susan Ayres splash paint onto scenery for the musical.

At 2:30 and 3:15, Ripplites rush to Broad Ripple Avenue to gain a seat on the bus. Sixty per cent of Ripple pupils ride buses daily.

Calendar of social activity extends through year

Royal Riparianites Sandy McCreary and Steve Goldsmith lead the dancing after being named Miss and Mr. Riparian for 1963.

Prom dates play as important a part as finals dates in the lives of Ripplites caught up in a year-long social whirl.

Napkins, chicken wire, and hours of work combined to make the 18 truck and car floats which traditionally symbolize Ripp'e Homecoming. The parade through Broad Ripple Village, the coronation of the queen during the half-time of the Ripple-Howe game, and the after-game dance, "Just Memories," highlighted the Student Council-sponsored activities.

"Harvest Holiday," the theme of the annual Riparian Dance, was carried out by cornstalks, scarecrows, and cornucopias. Climax of the first semi-formal dance of the school year was the announcement of Miss and Mr. Riparian, selected by subscriber vote.

Games of skill and fun, souvenirs to buy, and food to eat characterized the annual Association of Parents and Teachers Carnival held in November.

After-game dances sustained the tide of social activity until May 8 when the Juniors hosted the Prom, "Harbor Lights." Three weeks later, the social season ended with the Grad Dance.

Tears of joy fill the eyes of Merri Mueller as Sally McCreary, 1963 Homecoming Queen, crowns Merri her successor. Other queen finalists and their ROTC escorts surround the royal pair.

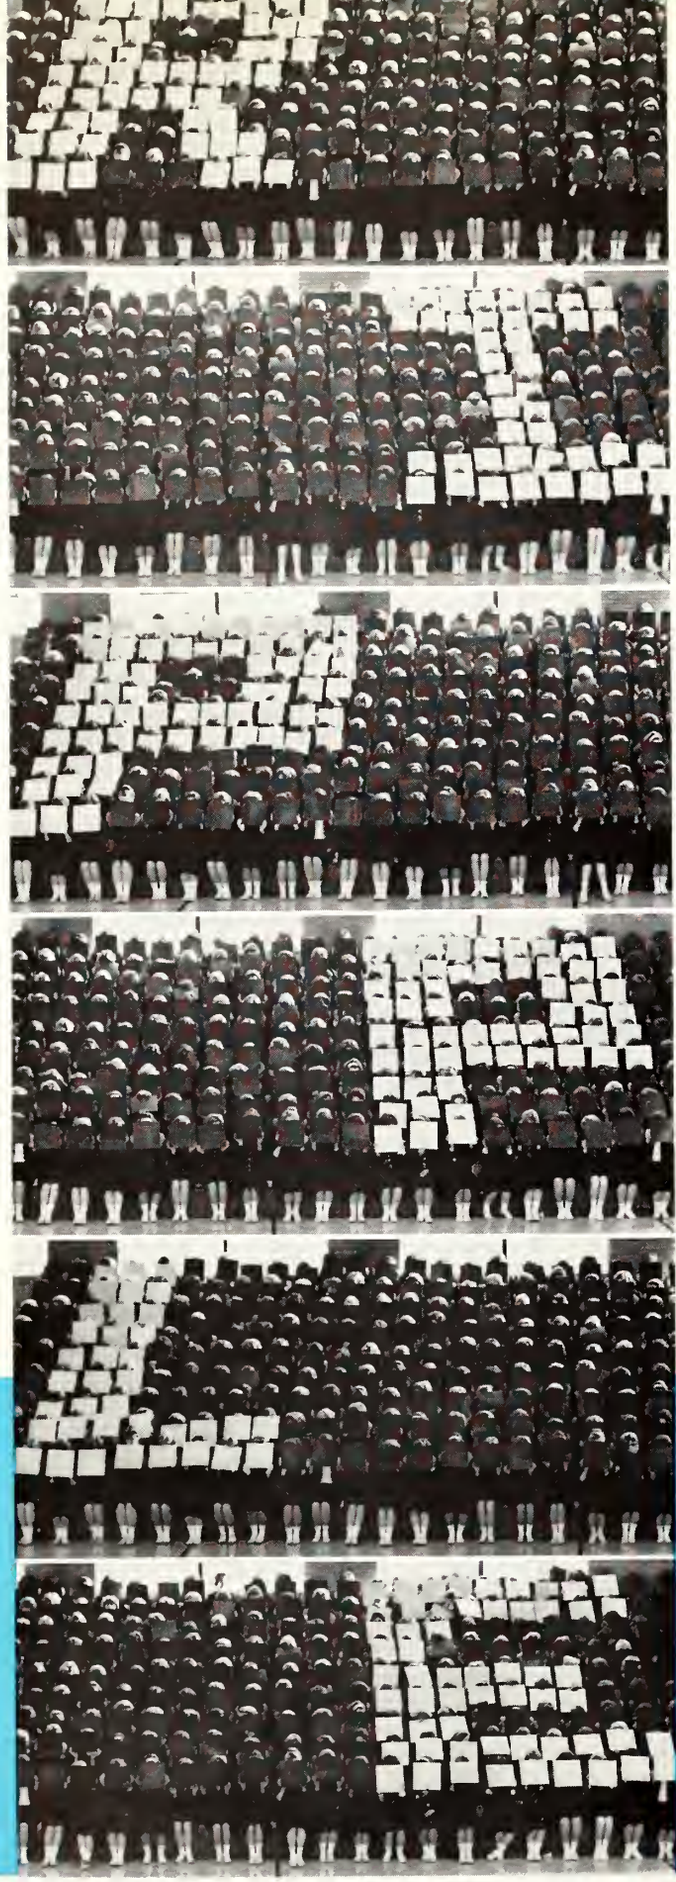
Enthusiasm displayed



Proudly spelling the school's name, the Ripp'e Booster Club card section presents half-time entertainment for basketball fans. Organized last year as the first of its kind in the city, the section contains over 350 girls.

Winner! Senior Election Board members Jeani Moust, Sue Ann Scott, Annette Hannum, and Beth Walker tally results of voting.

Accepting her share of the class's financial responsibility, Janie Wallace pays her dues to Junior Class treasurer Don Buddenbaum.

in school activities reflects Ripplites' liveliness

Ripplites demonstrate their pride in their school by actively participating in both class- and school-sponsored activities.

Entering high school as individuals, pupils grow together through class activities. Although there is no class organization until the junior year, after vigorous campaigning for officers, class members set to work selecting rings and presenting the Junior Dance, both of which earn money for the highlight of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom. Similarly, seniors, after choosing their leaders, work toward Commencement and the Grad Dance in the spring.

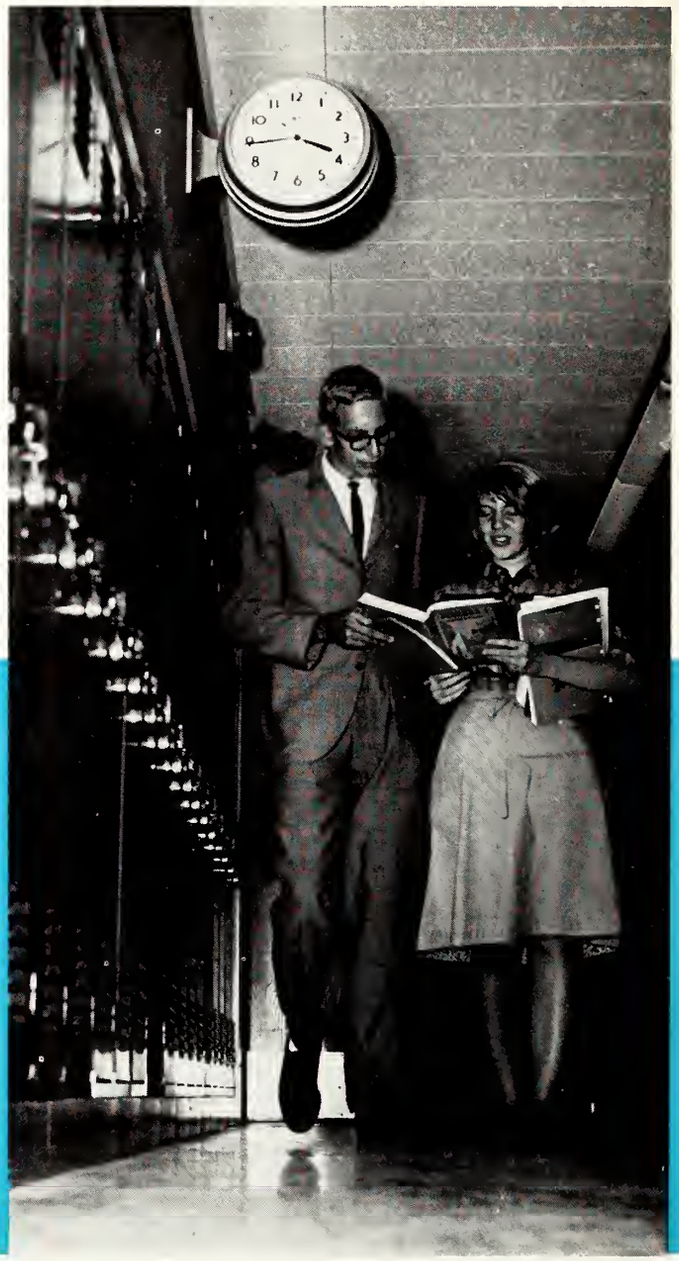
While class loyalties remain strong, pupils also form firm friendships with members of other classes through extracurricular clubs and athletic events. Organizations draw together pupils of similar interests and abilities while providing enjoyment and service. Likewise, athletics encourage integrity and sportsmanship for both spectators and participants.

After school, throngs of hungry Broad Ripple pupils flock to nearby drive-in restaurants for food and companionship.

Long lines of pupils crowd the Auditorium lobby on the first day Ripples tickets are offered for sale. The student vaudeville-type production plays annually for two nights during March.

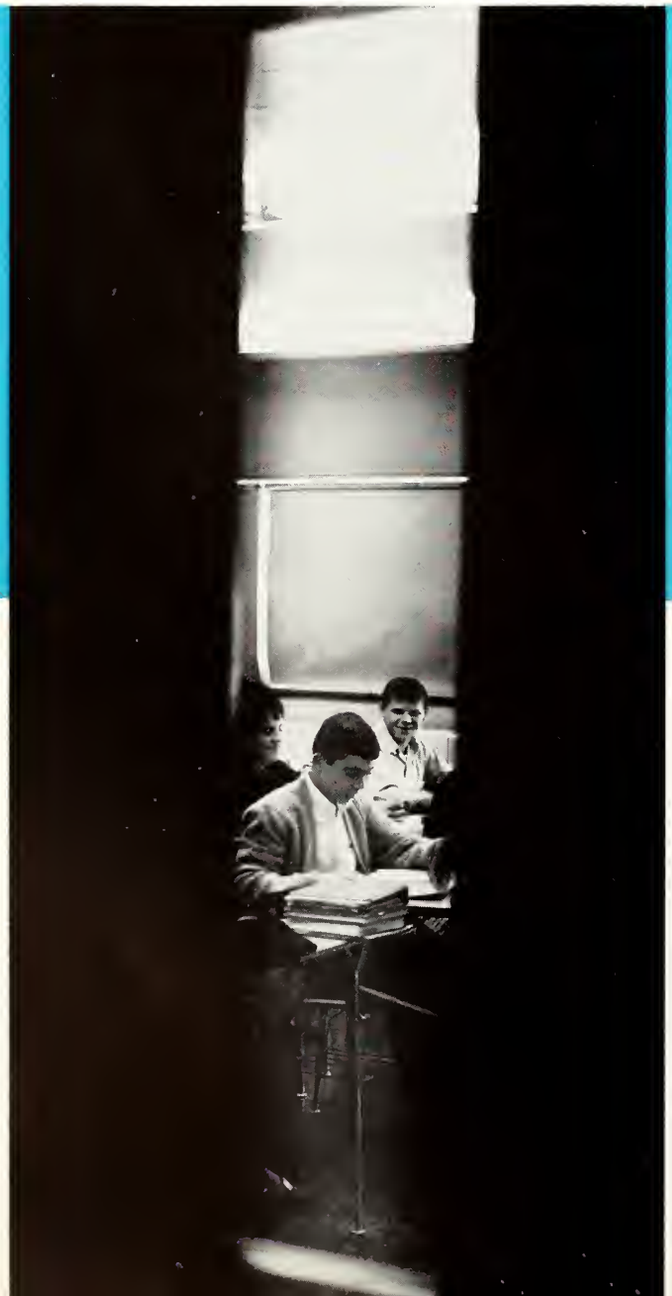
Four years of well-rounded high school studies

Cramming during lunch, Janet Clodfelder tries to study despite the chatter of Rachelle Salzman and Mary Pinnell.



Leaving school, Mr. Clarence Morgan and Shari Vrell take time to talk over the solution of a tricky algebra problem.

Framed by the classroom door, pupils in an English class concentrate on making a high grade on their test.



equip Ripplites for fulfillment of goals for future

Realizing that despite the presence of extra-curricular activities and social events, the purpose of the school remains primarily education, Ripple pupils create an academic atmosphere emanating from the school.

A well-rounded education for everyone is the keystone of Broad Ripple's academic policy. Although ranked as one of the nation's best college preparatory schools, Ripple strives to educate also those who end their education with high school graduation. Pupils choose from three diploma plans depending upon their abilities and plans for the future: academic, fine and practical arts, and general. Each course of study, while allowing some freedom of course selection within the 11 individual departments, nevertheless requires a general knowledge in all areas for graduation.

For some come tangible rewards in the form of honors and scholarship grants. But for all come the knowledge and satisfaction of having received a sturdy, general education which will serve them well in whatever they do in the future.

Study time extends far into the evening for Stuart Siegel who, like most other pupils, averages 40 minutes per subject nightly.

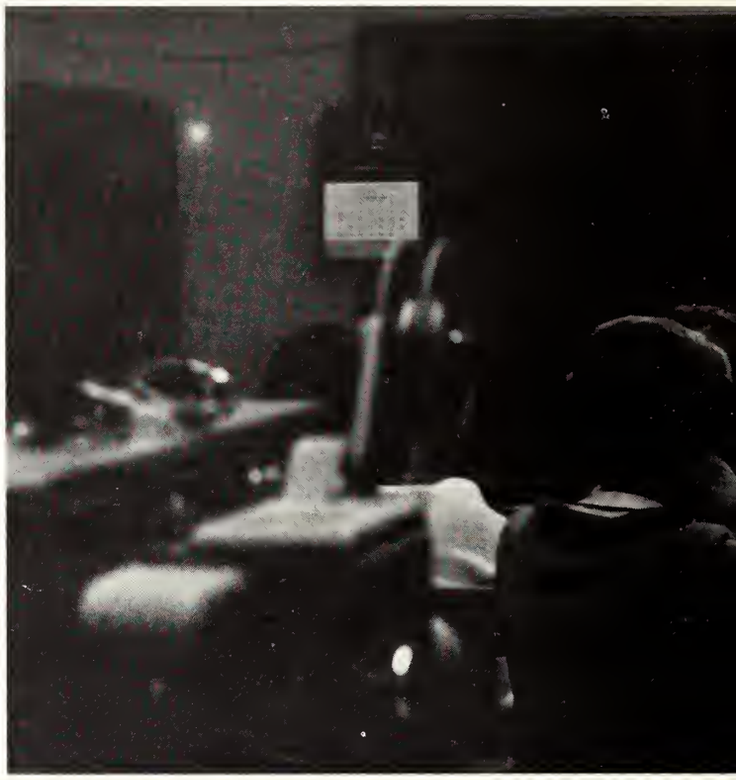
Receiving information about the Scholastic Aptitude Test which th y take to qualify as finalists are National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists Chris Woolling, Mary Ellen Jacobs, John Bowers, Marilyn Kolesar, Lee Seldon, and Barry Glazer. Not pictured is John Rominger.

Undercurrents of foreign, familiar tongues blend

The flowing current of French, the gutteral quality of German, the thick roll of Spanish, and the clipped familiarity of English provide a part of the many-textured background of the language departments.

Following the changing trends in language learning, much of the Foreign Language Department has adopted the conversational approach. Although Latin remains primarily translation, new French texts for the first two years present dialogues which students memorize. German and Spanish texts being used for the first time also introduce the conversational technique and de-emphasize grammar. Only after learning to speak the tongue fairly well does the pupil actually translate texts. Finally, after he has mastered the ability to speak his language, he studies the grammar principles.

English pupils necessarily approach their studies from a different angle. Although they have already learned to speak the language, pupils must constantly increase their vocabularies. Therefore, English I-VI stress, among other things, vocabulary improvement. These six semesters required for graduation, include instruction in theme writing, literary appreciation, and grammar. Courses in publications, Speech, and advanced literature and composition enable pupils to enrich their knowledge of their language.



Strict, undivided attention is essential to comprehension of the "pacer film," an aid to speed in reading.

From the large selection of paperbacks in Ripple's bookstore, Ben Brouhard selects Pride and Prejudice for enjoyment.

Use of the language lab becomes interesting and helpful for Lucinda Gaul under the careful direction of Mrs. Mary C. Diaz.

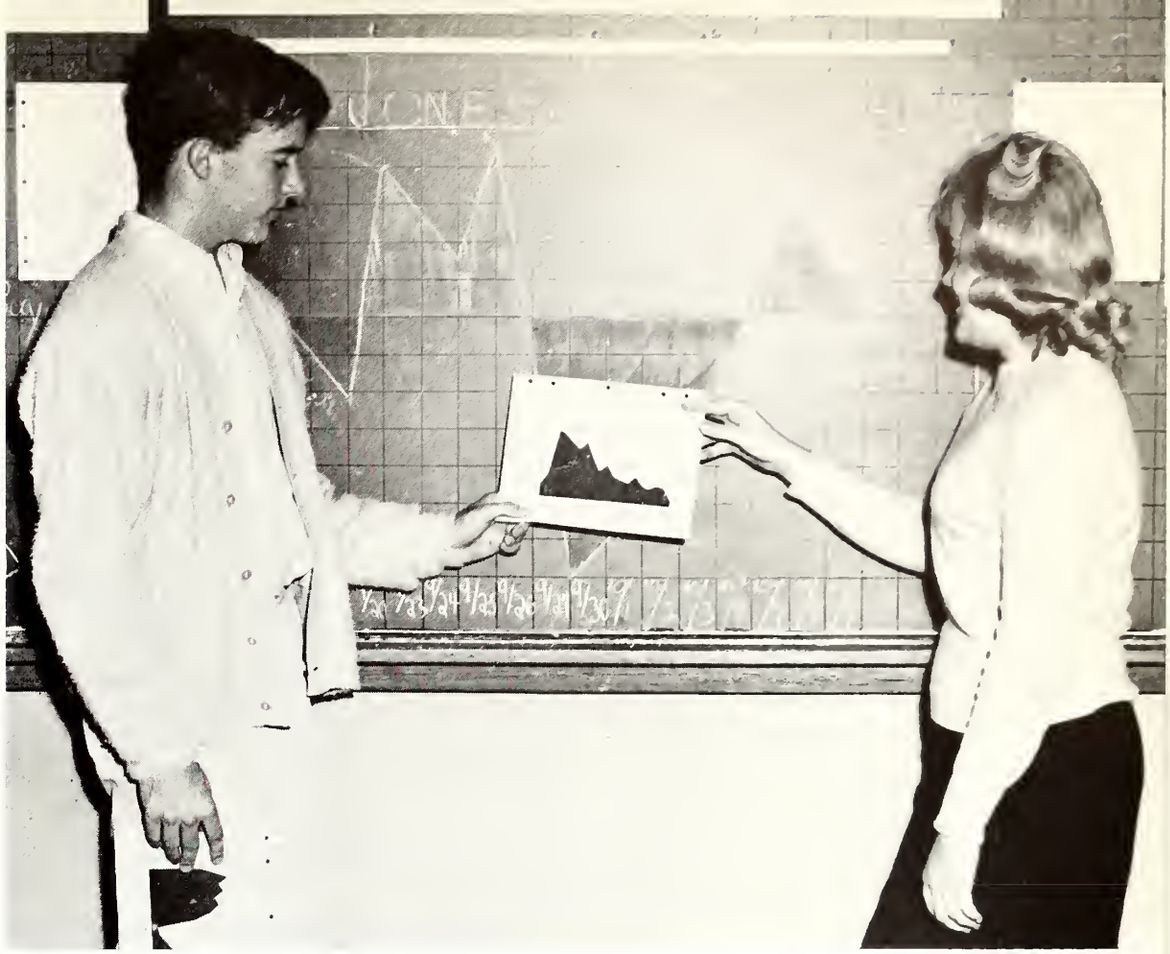
Admiring Ripple's Freedoms Foundation Award are Gracia Johnson, "pilgrim" representative to Valley Forge, and Mary Ellen Jacobs, DAR Award recipient.



Following carefully the stock market trends, Economics pupils John Eaglesfield and Pat Strader prepare to graph the latest reports.

spectrum of humanity for social studies classes

The obscure black of the Dark Ages, the inflamed red of the World Wars, the frigid blue of the Cold War, the green of our natural environment, and the gray matter controlling the human personality provide a spectrum of human existence for pupils in social studies classes.

By illustrating actions and consequent reactions of past civilizations, histories of the world and of the United States record a timeline of events and prepare the pupils to cope with similar conditions when in the future they themselves help to pattern history. Tying this past with the modern world, International Relations explains the organization of foreign governments, and geography reveals the influence of environment on occurrences and situations in history.

Having thoroughly studied the origin, development, and function of the United States Congressional, Judicial, and Executive bodies through Government classes, Economics pupils learn to understand and interpret social and financial problems within the United States government and the American society.

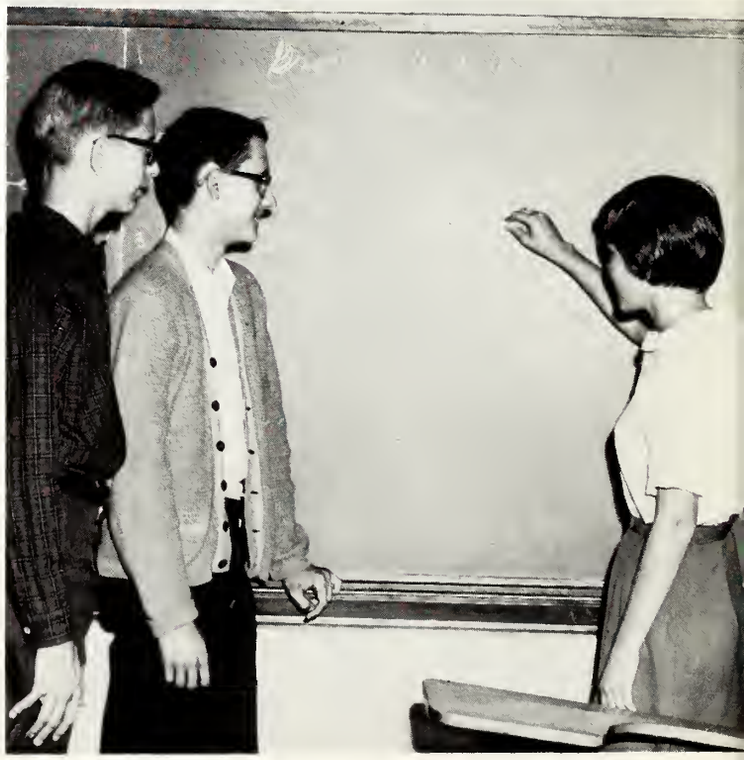
Map-making brings geography to life for Harriet Giezendanner, Mike Boyd, and Paul Wood.

Mathematics constitutes "language of science"

Taking advantage of the balmy weather and a different, intriguing assignment in biology, Jeff Eshowsky, Ted Sedam, and Judi Heidloff chase "lepidoptera" for insect collections.

Points, lines, angles, circles, and solids are all easily constructed with only compass and ruler by Judy Kercher.

Demonstrating the properties of fields, Algebra III pupils Larry Stout, Ron Hostetler, and Bette Eib investigate set theory.



for physical science, biology, chemistry, physics

Amoeba and analytics, binomials and balances, and chemicals and calculations comprise the ABC's of Ripple's Math and Science Departments. Courses from general mathematics to Calculus and from physical science to physics complete Ripple's scientific curriculum.

Five years of science offerings provide Ripplites an opportunity to study their specific interest in this varied field. Physical science students gain a general knowledge of our earth while beginning and advanced biologists, pupils of the "science of life," examine first plants—from bacteria to seed plants, then animals—from the simple amoeba to the complex mammal, and finally the mysteries of human life. Chemistry pupils analyze matter and the changes in identity which it undergoes, while future physicists learn the basic laws under which nature operates.

Mathematics, the "language of science," provides a basis for measurement, calculations, and quantitative study of science. In addition to general mathematics and the required courses in algebra and geometry, Ripple's Math Department includes advanced courses such as Trigonometry, Solid Geometry, Analytical Geometry, College Algebra, and Calculus.

Operating a visual aid to understanding the binary number system, Susan Negley and Jane Everly learn fundamentals of algebra.

Careful measurment is essential to chemistry pupil Ken Ferguson as he attempts a titration, or neutralization of acid and base.

Sparks fly as Dave Campbell, protected by goggles and apron, completes his metal work during a shop class.

Practical arts courses

Using their high school studies as direct introductions to future careers, many Ripplites develop skill in practical arts through classes such as home economics, industrial arts, and business education.

Girls enrolled in one of the many home economics courses develop their skills in modern living. Instruction in nutrition, Foods I-IV, nursing, family living, and Clothing I-IV prepares a girl for a career as a seamstress, designer, cook, or homemaker.

The Industrial Arts Department offers similar preparation for the futures of Ripple boys. In mechanical drawing, pupils learn the fundamentals of building construction and may go on to careers in architecture or engineering. Also offered are wood shop, which provides the basis for a career in carpentry, and metal shop, a preparation for work in machinery.

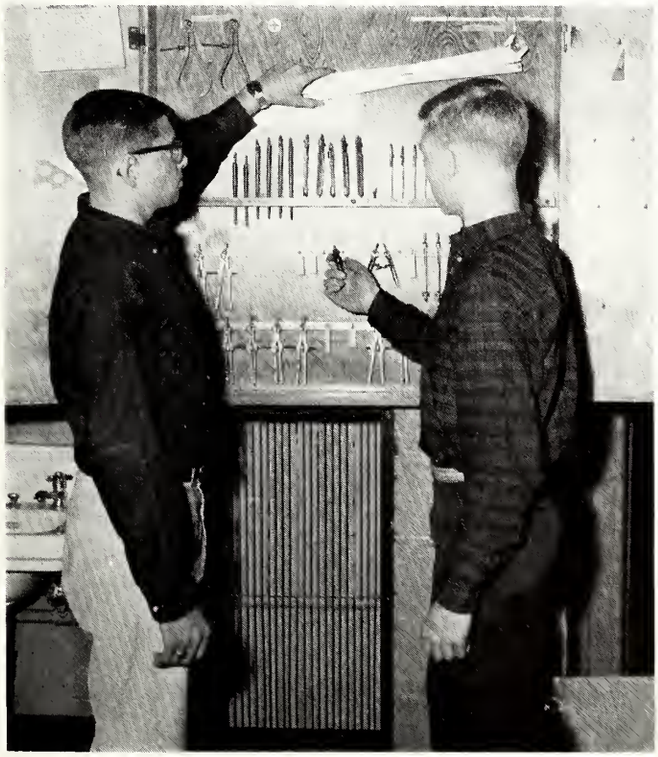
The Business Education Department introduces a basic understanding of the adult world of office work and buying, selling, and producing. Preparing pupils for secretarial careers and helping them in high school and college financing and study are practical courses such as typing and shorthand. General business, business law, business arithmetic, and merchandising train pupils specifically for these careers.

Contemplating the use she will receive from her efforts, Anne Bird carefully guides her dress through the sewing machine as she completes the final trim on her garment.

pattern vocations of architects, typists, dieticians

A miniature home evolves from the skill, time, and patience of Larry Prange as he carefully hammers nails and beams into the model construction during a wood shop class.

"Decisions are important," remember Gary Bauer and John Longsdorf as they choose from varied tools for mechanical drawing.



Speed and accuracy, though difficult to attain together, are the goals of future typists in the advanced typing class.

Health, Driver Ed improve pupil safety habits

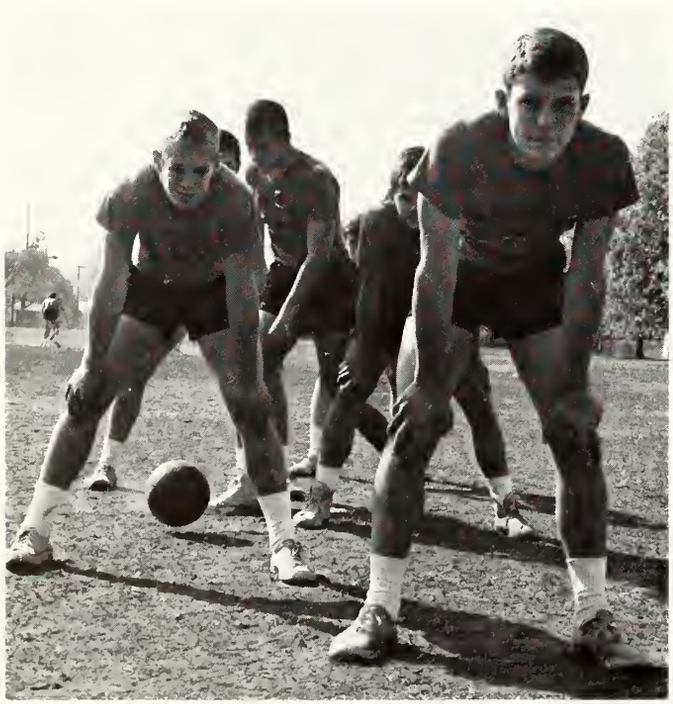
Examining the parts of an automobile motor, Driver Ed pupils Brenda Larson and Max Inglert investigate its operation.

The mechanics of an automobile, the miracles of the human body, the manual dexterity of the pupil, and the military procedure of the armed forces are among the objects of study and improvement in Driver Education, Health, "phys ed," and ROTC.

Prospective drivers benefit from the supervision provided by both class and "behind-the-wheel" training in Driver Education courses. The thorough instruction received from these classes statistically places those young drivers who have taken the course above the average high-school-aged driver in safety.

Safety in everyday habits is also a basic in Health classes. Pupils study the structure and functions of the human body, learning the best methods to keep physically and mentally fit. By providing a daily period of exercise and sports competition, physical education develops co-ordination and general health.

ROTC, the Reserve Officer Training Corps, prepares boys for future service in the armed forces. Team competition in marksmanship and "knock-out" drills, instruction in the use of weapons and military organization, and stress on discipline and neatness develop leadership and ability in ROTC pupils.

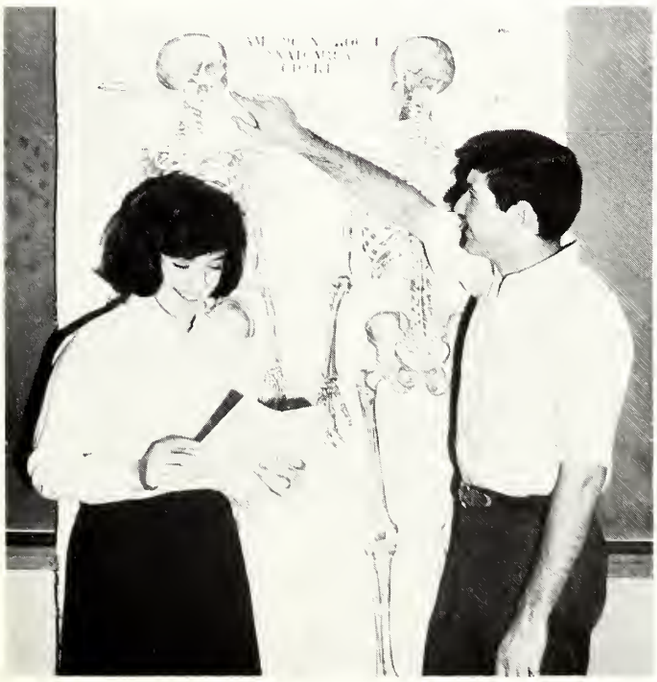


Set for action in an exciting game of English football, or soccer, a boys' phys ed class participates in team competition.

Exercise means relaxation, and the boys' phys ed class puts this principle to use during the rigors of a hard day at school.

A new kind of jump-rope finds Dianne Kinder upside down as Miss Barbara Vargo and Bobbie Wood help to turn the rope.

Illustrating Patty Hayes's talk on the human skeleton, Mike Caplan points out the cranium, or skull, in Health class.



ROTC "VIP's" Captain James Kirkpatrick, Gary Chambers, Phil Andrews, and Sfc. Richard Stoe receive congratulations from Principal J. Fred Murphy for the Marion County Rifle Championship.

Preparing for the Music Memory Contest, Vickie Hamilton, Julia Ranney, and Linda Stevens study the mood, instrumentation, and theme variation of the "Pastoral Symphony."

Carefully adding final decorative touches of colored string and wire to her three-dimensional study of design and color, art pupil Nancy Cohen completes her composition.

Fine arts develop cultural tastes and abilities

Perseverance, hours of practice, and both desire and ability to learn are essential to Dick Olson in his trumpet study.

From the brush of the artist, the pen of the composer, and the throat of the vocalist flow design, symphony, and melody, the products of Ripple's fine arts departments. Both classroom instruction and actual performance in art and music are available.

Pupils interested in color, design, and handcrafts find varied opportunities for self-expression in the Art Department. Applied experience in sketching, painting, and sculpturing in Art I-IV develops a basic appreciation of color contrast, artistic balance, and technique. This course and those in craft art, jewelry, and commercial art develop natural talent and interest of the pupil to create real ability and cultural tastes.

Study in vocal music begins with Chorus I, a general course in singing with some theory and appreciation included, and according to the vocalist's ability, advances to performing groups such as A Cappella Choir, Golden Singers, and Madrigals. Ripple's orchestras and bands provide the pupil with an opportunity to make practical use of his instrumental ability in playing with a group.

Having spent countless hours of time, patience, and skill in the completion of his painting, art pupil Bill Burtt reviews his efforts in an attempt to judge objectively.

Combining principles of color, design, and practicality in creating useful and artistic compositions, Janet and Janice Silver complete bracelets in jewelry class.

Learning proper breath control, Chorus I pupils Janet Meyer and Marilyn Platte follow a demonstration by Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann.

is 'Better than a Dream'

"It's Better Than a Dream," thought Ripple's Golden Singers about their successful presentation of the musical, Bells are Ringing, November 15 and 16.

Written by Betty Comden, Adolph Green, and Jule Styne, "Bells" centers around the predicaments a switchboard operator creates by her tendency to become involved in the personal lives of her subscribers. Marilyn Kolesar played Ella Peterson, the overly-helpful operator at Susanswerphone, the answering service owned by cousin Sue, portrayed by Margie Kingdon. Concealing her identity, Ella falls in love with Jeff Moss, p'ayed by Milford Robinson, as she helps him write a successful play. At the same time, Fred Stark, as Sandor Prantz, convinces Sue that Susanswerphone should merge with his company, Titanic Records, really a front for a bookie system. In the end, Inspector Barnes, John Bowers, closes in on the bookies and Ella and Jeff are united.

Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann and Mr. Gene Poston served as co-directors, assisted by Mrs. Janet Blocker. Mr. Paul Brown headed the sound crew, and Mr. Ferd Brumblay and Mr. Charles Reeder supervised the designing and construction of scenery.

Activity in the orchestra pit reaches a climax as Mr. Gene Poston directs orchestra and stage action.

Joys start as dreams, grow through experiences,

After months of hoping and mountains of red tape, distance disappears for American Field Service Exchange students who investigate world culture as "adopted" members of foreign families.

Ripple pupils got a first hand look at the modern German youth through Johanna Bode, who came to Indianapolis from Kassel, Germany. Joan, as she likes to be called, lived with the family of Dr. and Mrs. Loren Martin. Speaking perfect English, Joan addressed school and civic groups when she was not busy with Orange Aid, Student Council, Golden Singers, National Honor Society, Junior Historical Society, Tri-Hi-Y, and Booster Club. Besides representing Key Club at Homecoming, Joan reigned as Key Club Sweetheart at the annual Key Club Dance.

Joan's American "sister" Suzannah Martin is herself a world traveler, having spent the summer as an AFS Exchange student with the Alevras family in Athens. During her three months in Greece, Suzannah lived in a "villa," ate snail and octopus, and visited the Acropolis and the Parthenon.

Although German fashions greatly resemble those here, the bermuda shorts shown her by Mrs. Martin are new to Joan.

Happily anticipating her first American hot-dog, Joan attracts the attention of wide-eyed Mike Caplan.

"Welcome home" and "hello" combine as freshman Melissa Martin rushes to greet Suzannah, back from a three months' stay in Greece, and to introduce her to Joan, her "new sister."

College admission for Ripplites is Mrs. Rosalind Ewing's aim as she writes recommendations in fulfilling her duties as Dean.

Efficient operation of the school plant and establishment of mutual friendship and respect between faculty members and pupils is the double aim of Broad Ripple's administrative staff.

Top administrative officer, Principal J. Fred Murphy, determines and executes school policy in accordance with rules established by the Board of School Commissioners. On the academic level, he interviews applicants for teaching positions and supervises curriculum planning. This year Mr. Murphy served as treasurer of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, of which he is past-president.

Assisting Mr. Murphy are Ripple's two vice-principals, Mr. Harold Harding and Mr. Roger Riley. Controlling the purse strings of Broad Ripple, Mr. Harding prepares and administers the general school budget. In co-ordination with his job as school and extracurricular activities treasurer, Mr. Harding supervises the operation of the bookstore and financial office and originates requisitions and purchase orders. Safety-minded, he directs all school fire and air raid drills.

Administration's friendliness, efficiency combine

Important correspondence comes first as Principal J. Fred Murphy dictates to his secretary, Mrs. Josephine Wolf.

Commanding most of Mr. Riley's time is the supervision and revision of the curriculum. However, he also serves as general director of Ripples and chairman of the Awards Committee. Other duties include evaluating the credits of transfer pupils, preparing daily announcements, and planning assembly programs. While most people are enjoying a vacation, Mr. Riley administers summer school.

Helping pupils progress through high school is the job of class counselors who arrange schedules and keep pupils informed as to class ranking. Bridging the gap between grade and high school, Miss Marie Sullivan serves as eighth-grade counselor and as freshman counselor with Miss Barbara Vargo. In their second year pupils are counseled by Mrs. Maenell Newsome and Mr. Edward O'Nan and during the junior year by Mr. Dale Hamner and Mr. Arnold Pahmeier, who serves as class sponsor. Mr. Albert R. Mahin and Miss Melba Schumacher aid pupils during their final year. Part-time jobs and summer jobs are obtained through Mr. Mahin, Placement Director, who is also Senior Class Sponsor. Director of Guidance Robert Bryant helps prospective college students find the right school and gain admission.

Responsibility for pupils' personal problems and helping them adjust to the high school environment falls upon Mrs. Rosalind Ewing and Mr. Warren K. Jackson, Deans of Girls and Boys, respectively.

In connection with his job as supervisor of the Cafeteria, Mr. Warren K. Jackson, Dean of Boys, signs Dennis Socks's admit slip.

Daily routine occupies both office personnel and student assistants.

for enjoyable and rewarding school atmosphere

Checking ribbons and programs with official lists of Legion of Merit and Legion of Honor winners, Mr. Harold Harding, Mrs. Eileen Hall, and Mr. Roger Riley complete Ripple Round-up preparations.

Service-minded, academically-interested, and entertainment-attracted Ripplites find both enjoyment and usefulness through participation in Ripple's extra- and co-curricular organizations. Working on the theory that it is not enough to simply belong, Ripplites actively support club projects.

Musicians seek to obtain noteworthy perfection

Crises, hilarity, weariness, elation—all these marked the Golden Singers' '63-'64 year: crises when rehearsals went badly, hilarity at the initiation and after-production cast parties, weariness when long rehearsals dragged overtime, and elation when the year drew to a close on a note of success and fulfillment. The group, under the direction of Mr. Gene R. Poston, consists of talented musicians enrolled in vocal music from the senior, junior, and occasionally, sophomore classes. The 46 songsters performed for school and local organizations, caroled in Methodist Hospital at Christmas, sang the Broad Ripple "Alma Mater," and presented this year's musical comedy, Bells are Ringing.

Music of the 15th to 18th Century provides the repertoire performed by the Madrigal Singers, the school's top singing group. Founded in 1953 by its present director, Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann, the group of 12 talented vocalists sings unaccompanied for school and community programs. Striving for perfection in tone quality and ensemble singing, the Madrigals highlight their performing year by participating in the District and State ensemble contests held during the spring semester.

Members of Broad Ripple's A Cappella Choir,

Members of the Music Department follow a full schedule of programs for the school, Ripple clubs, local organizations, and church groups. A Cappella Choir, Girls' Concert Choir, and Orchestra participate in the annual Christmas Music Concert and the Spring Concert. Each of the groups meets one period daily.

A Cappella Choir, a mixed choir directed by Mr. Gene R. Poston, also helps backstage for the musical presented annually by Golden Singers. Selected vocalists from Choir progress to membership in Golden Singers.

Chosen because of their special musical ability, girls of Concert Choir participate in the annual Christmas program. Directed by Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann, they sang this year for church groups, a businessmen's organization, an old folks' home, and a school club's Christmas party.

Ripple's Orchestra plays for the Golden Singers' musical. Under the directorship of Mr. Paul A. Brown, the members of the Orchestra play for school auditoriums. Outstanding instrumentalists selected from this group comprise smaller sections such as the String Ensemble. Every spring the Orchestra competes in the state-wide instrumental contest.

Pupil organizations provide music opportunities

Tuning in a fellow "ham" are Radio Hi-Fi Club officers Larry Rust, Bonnie Fisher, Ben Austin, and Phil Ackerman.

Ripple's marching band participates in the Veteran's Day and "500" parades. Mr. Wallace Decker, conductor, leads the practices which begin in the middle of August and continue through the football season. To raise funds for new uniforms the band sells band tags in school and in Broad Ripple Village and sponsors a semi-formal dance.

Each semester Clef Club inducts new members who have been selected on the basis of individual vocal or instrumental talent. With the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Rosalee Hofmann, the members present an annual auditorium and sponsor guest artists who give concerts for the student body.

Members of Radio Hi-Fi Club make annual visits to local radio and television stations. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Paul A. Brown, the club records school programs to be sent to Freedoms Foundation and makes tapes of school public address announcements. From the organization Mr. Brown selects members of the sound crew.

Honorary organizations

Traveling to Chicago by bus and sponsoring a sock hop after a basketball game highlight the Junior Historical Society year. Members with the assistance of their sponsor, Mr. J. Raymond Hall, add unusual buttons to their campaign badge collection.

Promoting an awareness of safety throughout the school is the purpose of Ripple's Safety Council. Council members sponsor the Annual Safety Essay and Poster Contest and safety check cars parked in the Ripple lot. Members, under the leadership of Mr. Harold K. Harding, strive each year to win again a National Student Traffic Safety Award.

National Honor Society, sponsored by Mr. Albert R. Mahin and Miss Winifred West, promotes high standards among members. By addressing freshmen on obtaining high grades and hearing well-known speakers, members work toward the school's purpose of giving "Broader, Richer, Human Service."

To gain more profit from the carnival this year, members of Student Council sold AFS Christmas cards. Homecoming is the responsibility of Council members. Mrs. Marilyn J. Dearing and Mr. Gene R. Poston are sponsors of the group.

Charity-minded groups

Annual activities of Orange Aid include the Big Sister program and the style show presented at the carnival. Directed by Mrs. Rosalind Ewing, the group this year sent gifts to a mental hospital and decorated the School for the Blind for Christmas.

To carry out their purpose of promoting school and community spirit, Ripple's Key Club members, with Mr. Warren K. Jackson, their sponsor, conduct service projects including keeping the school grounds clean, urging citizens to vote in elections, selling programs at home athletic contests, aiding the fight against leukemia, and clothing and feeding a family at Christmas time.

Photo Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Charlene Boyle, acquaints members with general photographic techniques. To improve their skill in the use of photographic equipment, members participate in contests in the spring.

Members of Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y this year sponsored a teen dance at the Jordan YMCA and donated the profits to charitable organizations. The experiences of members who participate in the annual Model United Nations increase their knowledge of world affairs and their understanding of foreign peoples. Miss Jean Hoilman and Mr. Robert K. Shiny new pins are the proud possessions of Booster Club members since the club adopted its first official jewelry this year. The club's card section, the only one of its kind in the city, flashes words of encouragement to the basketball team during home games. Sponsored by Mr. Arnold Pahmeier, Booster Club has over 375 members.

Judged the best cheerleaders in the city by the Kiwanis Club, Ripple's varsity squad, directed by Miss Barbara Vargo, cheers the Rockets to victory at varsity football and basketball games. Also under the sponsorship of Miss Vargo, the reserve cheerleaders generate pep and school spirit during B-team competition.

Girls interested in volleyball, archery, bowling, and track events participate in the Girls' Athletic Association. The GAA, guided by Miss Vargo, promotes physical fitness and healthy competition as part of its intramural program. Members who earn 50 points through GAA activities are entitled to awards at the end of the year.

Finding seats for lost spectators and sweeping the gym floor during half-time at home basketball games are projects undertaken by members of Lettermen's Club. Membership in the club is limited to those who have earned a varsity letter for athletic achievement. Advised by Mr. Robert Ludlow, the club sponsors an annual spring dance.

Heartbreak and delight

What goes on behind the door of Room 92? Unknown to many Ripplites, the "cubbyhole" is the scene of frenzied activity, muffled hilarity, and frequent yawns. Room 92 is the home of the Riparian yearbook. It is here that staffers set and, hopefully, meet deadlines. It is here that they "crop" pictures, write "copy," and at last send the final piece of material to the printer. It is here that they create the Riparian yearbook.

Gaining practical experience for their work on the Riparian yearbook, yearbook staffers attended summer journalism institutes. Steve Deck, Anita Hawickhorst, Mary Ellen Jacobs, and Marty Zohn spent two weeks at Indiana University. Kent State University in Kent, Ohio, was the destination of Susan Frakes, Barb Gavin, Peggy Reichert, Jane Remley, Anne Sheeks, and Diane Stone. Gracia Johnson attended Michigan State University's workshop and Sceeter Engel studied at the University of Michigan.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs and Miss Charlene Boyle, the Riparian yearbook has annually won highest honors from the National and Columbia Scholastic Press Associations.

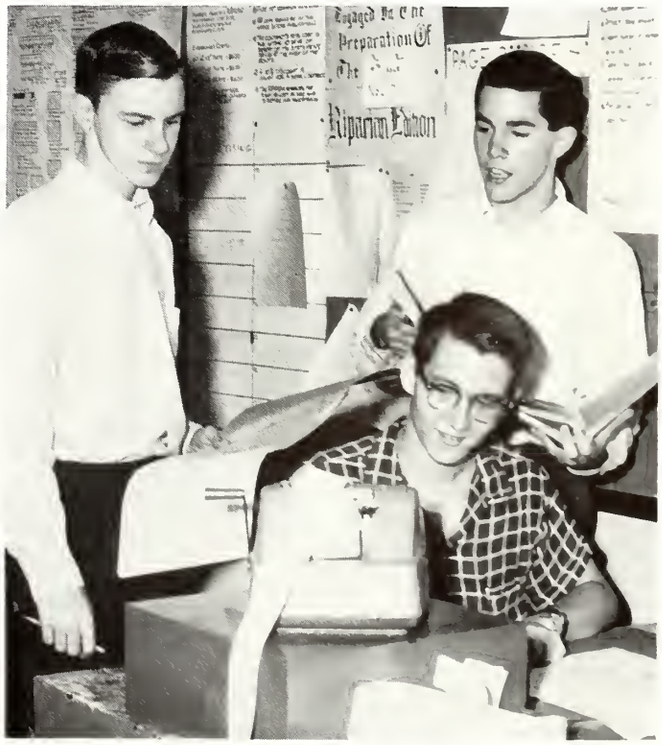
Recording the events and activities of the school year is the task of yearbook section editors Melissa Martin, Susan Frakes, Keith Jackson, Gracia Johnson, Linda Scott, Jane Remley, Barbara Gavin, Anne Sheeks, Diane Stone, Pam Davidson, Sceeter Engel, and Peggy Reichert.

Before typing advertising copy to be sent to the printer, ad manager Sherry Levy and ad copywriters Anne Beyer, Kathy Brownewell, Marty Cohen, Suzannah Martin, and Cindy New contact advertisers to check the accuracy of the captions.

Working for the Riparian newspaper and yearbook and the Ripple Calendar, circulation manager Charles Meyer and business managers Don Buddenbaum and Marty Zohn use the adding machine to calculate profits for the '63-'64 school year.



Ideas and criticisms flow freely as newspaper page editors John Rominger, Steve Goldsmith, Pam Mitchell, Nancy Wormser, Sandi Servaas, and Nancy Frakes make story assignments and indulge in a little "brain-storming" at an informal conference in the Riparian office.

Mid-year newspaper editorial switch increases

The clatter of five busy typewriters, the jangle of a ringing phone, the sound of a dozen voices lamenting perpetual crises—these are the sounds of the Riparian newspaper office at the height of activity. A staff of 51 journalists, with the advice of sponsors Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs and Miss Charlene Boyle, works to make the Riparian newspaper an award-winning publication.

Three top newspaper editorial positions changed hands this year. Editor-in-chief Chris Woolling traded places with editorial editor Nancy Wormser to allow time for other activities. Columnist Steve Goldsmith succeeded trackman John Rominger as sports editor, and Kitzi Haycox replaced mid-term graduate Gordon Saskin as ad manager.

"Little brother" to the Riparian newspaper is the "Little Rip," a weekly news sheet presenting news and "esoteric information" for Riparian staffers. Awarded the George Gallop award from Quill and Scroll, the "Little Rip" keeps Riparianites up-to-date on staff activities and projects.

"Vote for Budd because Budd's wiser!" proclaimed signs and posters decorating the Franklin College campus during October. Members of the Indiana High School Press Association elected Riparian business manager Don Buddenbaum Executive Board member at the organization's yearly convention.

Looking over page layouts, editor-in-chief Chris Woolling and managing editor Dan Cahill review plans for the next issue.

As a publication of the Riparian staffs, the Ripple calendar lists games, dances, and school events scheduled during the year. From a group nominated by the student body, professional photographers select 12 junior and senior girls each of whom is featured as a girl of the month.

Correspondents on News Bureau compose news and feature stories weekly for the Teen Star, Northern Suburbanite, News, Times, Star, and North Side Topics. Through these articles Indianapolis residents learn of the activities and achievements of Broad Ripple High School pupils.

Spirited competition tempered with sportsmanlike judgment characterizes Ripple's athletic program. More than 250 boys participate in nine interscholastic sports, including gymnastics for the first time this year. In addition, over 250 Ripplites form teams for competition in six intramural sports.

Young Broad Ripple gridsters find wins scarce,

by Steve Goldsmith

Plagued by injuries and inexperience, Broad Ripple's football Rockets suffered one of their rockiest seasons in recent years.

The Rockets started and ended the season on winning notes, but the road between was very rough. With only six seniors on the line-up, Ripple opened the season against the new Northwest on September 6. Mike Perry's 205 yards through the air helped the Rockets swamp the Space Pioneers in their first varsity competition, 46-13.

Hoping they weren't really "a year away," Ripple faced strong Tech. The gridmen held off the Green wave for three quarters, but three last-quarter Titan TD's gave Tech a 33-6 triumph. Top Ripple halfback Bill Holton was hurt early in the game.

Still hampered by injuries, Coach Bob Brown's team fell at the hands of powerful Scecina, September 20. The Crusaders were never headed, drubbing the Rockets, 38-7. The next week, the Rocket defense could not cope with North Central's Panthers who rolled up 260 yards on the ground. An intercepted Ripple pass in the first quarter set up the initial Panther score. The score stood 25-0 before Ron Hansen tallied for Ripple, after a North Central fumble, to bring the final mark to 25-6.

In his first varsity game as quarterback, Rick Lee completed 8 of 12 passes to lead a fired-up Ripple squad to a 20-0 Homecoming victory over Howe. The Rockets, who have won 8 of their last 10 Homecoming battles, scored on a Lee pass, a six-yard plunge by Kenny Castor, and a three-yard play by Perry.

Traveling to Washington for the Continentals' Homecoming, Ripple completely dominated the game for three quarters and led 19-6 with only six minutes left. But an alert Washington offense and a series of Ripple mistakes brought about a 27-19 Continental win. On October 18, the Manual eleven stopped the Orange and Black, 13-7, at the north-side "dust-bowl." Ripple's score came on a fourth-quarter 55-yard pass from Perry to Carter Jackson.

City champ Cathedral's superior man-power was evident as the Irish ran over, around, and through the Ripple defense for a 54-6 victory. However, Ripple was only the second team to score on the Irish during the season. Two first-half touchdowns proved to be the difference as arch-rival Shortridge rolled over Ripple, 34-21. Tony Castor, in his best game of the year, scored once; and Lee passed for the other two Ripple six pointers.

With eight starting players hurt through the season, the Rockets hosted Arlington for the first time and won the season finale by a 14-0 score. A plunge by Kent Shookman and a last-minute sixty-yard run by Lee gave Ripple its two scores.

Dave Burris was named the first recipient of the John Lyman award given to the senior lineman exhibiting the integrity and fortitude of the late Lt. Cmdr. John Lyman, a victim of the Thresher sub-

Under Coach Earl Dose, the reserves ended 4-6, beating Northwest, 34-0; Howe, 20-13; Washington, 19-14, and Manual, 12-7. Losses were to Tech, 33-6; Scecina, 7-6; North Central, 28-6; Cathedral, 34-6; Shortridge, 14-12, and Arlington, 21-6.

The freshman football squad, coached by Gene Ring, completed its third straight successful season. Mark Ford led the Greenies to a 7-2 slate by scoring 85 points. The frosh defeated Tech, 14-6; Scecina, 6-0; Westlane, 13-0; Howe, 41-0; Manual, 27-0, and Shortridge, 40-0. Losses came at the hands of Washington, 13-7, and Cathedral, 12-6.

Rockets anticipate bright future in cross country

by Sceeter Engel

Despite a sub-par season, the future looks bright for Broad Ripple's cross country squad with 8 of the top 10 runners returning next year. Junior Mike Aurs turned in the year's top time of 10:51 and classmate Richard Furlow was close behind with a 10:53 for the two miles. Sophomore Don Carnahan also ran under 11 minutes.

The harriers started the season by placing second in a triangular meet with Carmel and Zionsville. Three days later, in a three-way meet with North Central and Manual, the Rocket thinclads got a taste of rough going as North Central placed 10 men under 11 minutes and Manual's Harold Brown won in 10:10. Aurs demonstrated his potential by being the first Rocket runner of the season under 11 minutes.

After falling to Southport, the Rockets finished twelfth in the Washington Invitational. Bouncing back, Ripple trounced Chatard and Scecina. The Lee-men hosted the Broad Ripple Invitational on September 27 and ended up fifth out of eight. Ripple then traveled to the Howe Invitational, capturing seventh place in a field of 12. Two days later Cathedral ran over Ripple as Steve Bond, the first Rocket across the finish line, placed ninth.

At the City Meet at South Grove the Rockets, led by Aurs' time of 10:57, finished twelfth. At the Shortridge Invitational, Furlow posted his season's best time of 10:53 for ninety-second place out of 800 and the Rockets finished twenty-first in their division. The final event for the hill-and-dalers was the October 18 Sectional Meet where Aurs posted his top season mark for fifty-ninth place. Close behind was Furlow with a time of 10:57. Jim Cooney, Stan Johnson, and Ron Elrod filled out the top five for the Rockets who wound up fifteenth out of 21.

The greenies showed much promise, finishing second in the city, four points behind Howe. Doug LeMaster and Ross Simmons led the frosh with times of 7:58 and 7:59, respectively, for the mile and a half.

Sectional determination

by Dick Griggs

Despite having only one senior, Coach Gene Ring's Ripple Rockets fought to an 11-12 season mark including two Sectional wins. A tough schedule—playing 14 out of 20 games on the road with an inexperienced team—cost the Rockets the few games needed for a winning season.

The Rockets kicked off their regular season by splitting four road games. The two victories came in overtime over Lawrence Central and Carmel, 65-63 and 70-66, respectively. Losses were to Decatur Central, 85-78, and Ben Davis, 85-75. Senior Jim Tucker, "Mr. Inside," and Alan Cohen, "Mr. Outside," paced scoring in all but the Lawrence game, in which Mike Perry had a season's high of 23.

At home the Rockets proved to be tough. In their first clashes they downed Sacred Heart, 69-68, and Crawfordsville, 80-70. Big leads were blown in both games as the Rockets found it difficult to cope with pressing defenses. Coupled with the Carmel game, these victories made for a modest winning skein of three, the longest of the season. It was snapped by Howe's eventual Indianapolis Regional champs, 83-72, as the Hornet front line shot 24-24 at the foul line. The next night the Rockets used ball-control tactics and a tenacious defense to win against Scecina, 57-39.

The Rockets then split back-to-back home games on the eve of the City Tourney, losing to underrated Manual, 79-64, and blasting Richmond, 91-84. Cohen had the season's high game with 29, only four off Bill Brown's school record of 33, and running mate

After driving around three Carmel defenders, junior Alan Cohen completes the play by hitting another bucket for the Rockets. Ripple won the overtime contest, 70-66.

Displaying the agility and coolheadedness which made him floor general, Rick Lee starts his drive against Richmond's defense.

Rick Lee had 25. Bill Hull had a tremendous night on the boards, garnering 25 rebounds.

In the City Tourney the Rockets hit their highest point total and winning margin in trouncing Chatard, 92-38. The next night, however, Shortridge cooled the Rockets' offense and won a squeeker, 47-46. Ripple led almost the entire game but turned cold at the most crucial stage.

Arlington spoiled the Rockets' perfect record in overtime clashes, winning, 75-73. The following night, however, Ripple played its best game all year, upsetting heavily-favored Cathedral, 81-63. The Rockets hit an unbelievable .714 percent from the field on 30 of 42 shots against the Irish. Cohen was perfect with 9 for 9 from the field and 6 for 6 at the foul line. Lee had 12 for 16 from the field and 2 for 2 at the charity stripe.

The Rockets played good ball for the remainder of the season although they won only once again, 80-65, over North Central.

Washington and Tech, each rated in the state's top ten, beat the Rockets, 71-54 and 93-71, respectively. Washington featured a tough press and balanced scoring, whereas Tech featured Mackie Johnson whose 30 points killed the Rockets' chances. The other losses came to Shortridge, 71-50; Noblesville, 101-81, and Greencastle, 83-73, in a game much closer than the final score would indicate.

In the Sectional, the Rockets downed Chatard, 71-38, and went on to avenge themselves against arch-rival Shortridge, 56-49. Next they extended eventual Sectional champ Tech, losing by a scant nine points, 72-63.

Tucker, who led scoring and rebounding this year, was chosen for the All-Sectional team.

Although the loss of Tucker will hurt, the Rockets should be a top contender next year. Cohen and Lee are fine outside shooters and floor leaders, while Hull, at 6'5", the only tall man, has a real scoring touch from the corners and underneath. The other men who figure to see action are Perry, Ron Short, and Fred Tucker.

The reserve cagers, coached by Bob Brown, took their lumps, finishing 4-15. Victories were over Tech, North Central, Crawfordsville, and Lawrence Central. Bob Pegg led reserve scoring.

The Little Rockets showed great promise this year as they racked up an 18-win, 3-loss slate.

Taking advantage of his towering height, junior Bill Hull captures a rebound for the Rockets.

Bill Sirka coached the Greenies to a first-place standing in the city competition.

In the City Tournament the Little Rockets went all the way to the final game with victories over Tech, Cathedral, and Washington. They lost, 72-42, to the Attucks greenies who hit an unbelievable 86 percent. Leading freshman scorers this year were Bill Stanfill, Dave Hobson, Scott Jackson, Stan Bockoski, and Mark Ford.

Matmen display ability

by Gary Olin

Broad Ripple's wrestlers proved themselves to be a strong tournament team by placing third in the City and by having one Regional and two Sectional champs despite a rather weak season record of 3-7.

Mr. George Mingle, in his first year at Ripple, coached the grapplers to dual-meet wins over Washington, 31-18; Northwest, 39-12, and Scecina, 33-10.

In the City Meet, the Rockets pulled a big surprise by tieing arch-rival Shortridge for third place. In the 133-pound class, Mark Sutton took home Ripple's only blue ribbon and Jim Gage captured second place in to 120-pound division. In the 127-pound class, Denny Phegley took third place and Dan Miller and Gary Olin placed fourth in the 165- and 180-pound classes, respectively.

In the Sectional Tournament, Sutton again "showed his stuff" by downing all opponents to take the crown. Sutton went on to take the Regional championship and place fourth in the State. His Sectional running mate in the 138-pound class was Bob Morgan, a big surprise to everyone, as he had only a mediocre season record. Taking second place in the Sectional were Gage and 95-pound Bob Manion. Phegley and Miller won their consolations to gain third place in this tournament and 112-pound Bob Borden and Olin placed fourth.

Individually, the grapplers had some outstanding records. Sutton led the squad with a blazing 20-2-1 record including the State Tournament. Borden had a 9-3-1 record including tournaments. Both Borden and Sutton were undefeated in dual meets. Other wrestlers with top records were Jim Gage, 14-4-1, and Denny Phegley, 10-6-1.

The reserves under Coach Bob Ludlow also had a down season, ending 2-7-1. They scored victories over Washington and Scecina and tied Northwest.

Although they had only one actual meet, in which they defeated Manual, 28-22, the frosh placed two grapplers in the freshman City Meet. Rick Havens and Bob Balay each captured fourth-place ribbons.

Racketmen capture first city tennis championship,

by Tom Olvey

Completing the finest season on record, the 1963 tennis squad, coached by Mr. Robert Hougham, produced three individual champions to capture a long-awaited city crown. It marked the first time Broad Ripple had won the championship. Added to the team's city laurels were impressive records of 10-1 in city competition and 13-1 overall.

Don Cleveland, Stan Cleveland, and Dave Schumacher led the varsity in the City Tournament, each powering his way past four opponents to win his respective division. After varsity racketmen Don Berns and Roger Chaffin were eliminated after two rounds, number one man Stan Cleveland defeated his opponent from Shortridge and Schumacher and Don Cleveland mastered Sacred Heart and Manual rivals, respectively, to gain top individual honors.

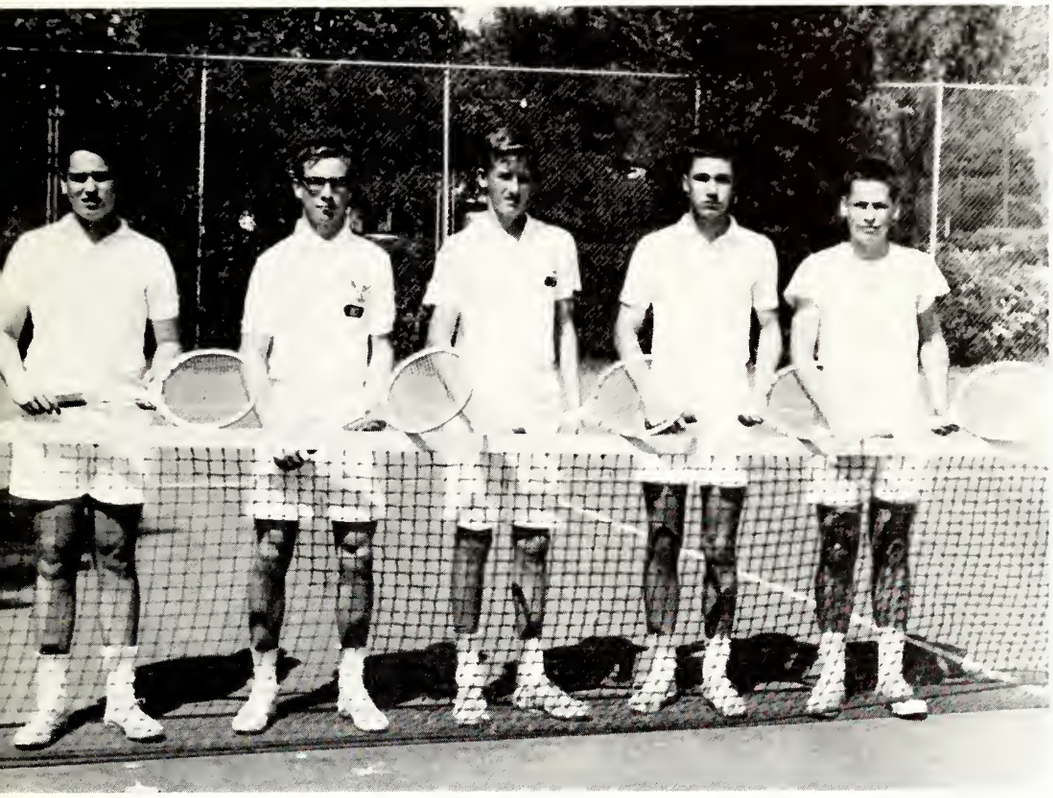
The second doubles team of Berns and Don Cleveland dropped their semi-final match while Schumacher and Stan Cleveland lost to Shortridge in the finals of their division. The three individual champions proved enough to place Ripple over the runner-up Shortridge Blue Devils.

Schumacher, competing as number two man, led the team with an undefeated record. Number one man Stan Cleveland finished the regular season by dropping only two matches. Don Cleveland, ranked as number three man, completed the season with a record identical to older brother Stan's. Berns, a returning letterman, lost three matches and Chaffin, in his first year, occupied fifth position for the Broad Ripple Rockets.

The first doubles team of Stan Cleveland and Schumacher and the number two team, composed of Berns and Don Cleveland, completed the season with only two losses apiece.

The highlight of regular season play was the team's 4-3 victory over Anderson. It marked the first time that a Ripple tennis team had been victorious in Ripple-Anderson competition. Berns and Schumacher racked up singles victories, and both doubles teams came through for the victory margin. The doubles teams also supplied the winning punch in the season opener 4-3 win over 1962 city champion Cathedral.

Rocket victims in the city besides Cathedral were Scecina, Crispus Attucks, Howe, Washington, Arlington, Manual, Sacred Heart, Tech, and Wood. Ripple blanked five teams by 7-0 counts, and three more fell 6-1. The racketmen defeated both county delegations, North Central and Lawrence Central, by identical 5-2 counts.



Varsity Tennis—Stan Cleveland, Roger Chaffin, Don Berns, Dave Schumacher, Don Cleveland.

finish with 13-1 record

The lone loss of the season came at the hands of Shortridge as the Blue Devils downed the Rockets, 5-2, despite singles wins by Don Cleveland and Schumacher.

With all five members returning in 1964, the team holds a bright spot in Ripple's athletic future.

Diamondmen post twentieth consecutive season

by Richard Furlow

The 1963 baseball Rockets completed Ripple's twentieth consecutive season over .500. The Rockets finished with a 7-4 overall record and their 4-3 city mark included an 8-1 victory over city champion Howe. Four games were washed out.

In the season opener, the Rockets breezed past Crispus Attucks, 10-1. Traveling to Zionsville, Ripple trounced the Greyhounds, 24-1. The game was called after five innings as Gary Holle blocked the opposition and Jan Witteveld knocked a home run. The mid-season loss of Witteveld and shortstop Bill Brown hurt the Rockets' chances.

Anderson's Indians proved too much for the Rockets, handing them their first defeat, 6-1. Larry Hall pitched in the losing cause.

Determined to stay above .500, the Bairdmen downed championship-bound Howe, 8-1, taking the lead with two unearned runs in the first inning. Holle smacked a homer and pitched the team to victory.

Behind 3-2 against Lawrence Central, the diamondmen fought back for two runs in the fifth inning to squeeze out the victory, 4-3. Center fielder Gary Golden saved the game for the Rockets as he speared a long fly ball late in the game.

The Blue Devils of Shortridge proved no match for Ripple, as the game was halted after five innings with the scoreboard reading 18-0. A ten-run fifth inning and a home run by shortstop Klein helped the Rockets defeat their north-side rival.

Holle and Hall combined efforts to hold Warren Central to one hit as Ripple smashed the Warriors, 10-1. The Warriors' only run came by way of a throwing error. Big guns for Ripple were Hall with a triple and Klein with two home runs. The victory set Ripple's record at 3-0 in city competition and 6-1 overall. However, Rocket catcher Jim Williamson dislocated several bones in his foot, forcing him to miss the remainder of the season. At the time of the accident he was hitting .440.

The Rockets dropped three of their next four games, starting with a 4-3 loss to Tech. Washington's Continentals administered the next defeat in another close contest, 2-1. Hall pitched the tightly contested ball game. Ripple then traveled to Arlington, breaking their losing streak with a 5-1 victory over the Golden Knights. Holle was the winning pitcher.

Nearly everything went wrong for the Rockets as Cathedral caught Ripple in their worst game of the season. Seven errors committed by Ripplites contributed to the 8-0 Irish victory.

Since games with Scecina, Manual, North Central, and Wood were rained out, the Rockets ended the season with a 7-4 mark.

The reserve diamondmen finished strongly, winning three games in a row for a 5-2 season mark.

Rick Sander pitched the reserves to victories over Scecina and Shortridge in the first two games of the season. The Rockets dropped 14-12 and 8-2 decisions

The Rockets broke out of their hitting slump, pasting Washington, 7-0. Arlington was the team's fourth victim by a 6-5 count, as Kent Shookman ran his pitching mark to 2-1. The Rockets downed Cathedral, 4-0, in the season finale.

The freshmen played only one game, losing 7-6 to Howe's Hornets.

Finishing strong, the linksters, under Coach John Perry, ended the 1963 season with a 17-9-1 record.

Ripple fared well against city foes, tying Scecina and defeating all others except Howe. In statewide competition the Rockets had no trouble with the southern teams. But the northern delegations proved stronger as all shot down the Rockets.

With nearly identical averages of 76 and 75.5, respectively, Rick Lee and Darryl Kladden led the team throughout the season. Kladden dominated the first half, his best performance a 69 in the Shortridge Meet to tie the school record. Lee stepped in toward season's end and set a new school record of 68 in the Sectional to earn the title of Medalist. The Rockets' third place finish in the Sectional preceded a seventh in the State where Lee fired a 76, three strokes off the best score of the meet.

Individual triumphs mark

by Jim Cooney

Highlighting the 1963 season for Coach Robert R. Ludlow's track team was the qualification of Brandt Downey and Bill Chrissinger for the Regional. The Rockets compiled a 2-3 dual meet record, finished fourth at the Broad Ripple Invitational, ninth in the City Meet, and eleventh in the Sectional. Although there were 12 returning lettermen, only 8 were able to compete all year.

Mike Ryan turned out to be one of the best milers in the county, finishing fifth in the City Meet and fourth in the Sectional. He gradually lowered his time to less than 4:38. Don Siegel proved to be a capable running mate with a best time of under 4:45. Jon Hughes and Dave Lyman gave Broad Ripple a strong pair of half-milers, both below 2:10 for the season. Tom Burch consistently placed in the high hurdles and Steve Scott and Tobe Stone packed a 1-2 wallop in the lows.

Bruce Simon was among the top three dashers in the state at the start of the year with a clocking of 23.0 in the 220-yard dash. However, a pulled muscle in the Cathedral meet forced him out of contention for the remainder of the schedule. John Rominger recorded one of Ripple's best 100-yard dash times in the past few years with a 10.4.

In the 440-yard dash, Downey ended up only nine-tenths of a second over the school record, his best time being 51.7. He finished third in the City and the Sectional, and fifth in the Regional.

Coach Milton Hiatt guided the field events men. Chrissinger set a new school high jump record of 6' 2 3/4" in the City but had to settle for second place because of more misses than his opponent. He placed second in the Sectional, fifth in the Regional, and was undefeated in dual meet competition.

Simon, Dave Burris, and John Kratz led the shotputters. In the broad jump, Claude Ford and Tom Corson consistently placed high, as did Jerry Holman and Steve Pratt in the pole vault.

The Rockets opened the season with an 89 1/2-19 1/2 clobbering of Pike. Ripple captured 10 first place awards, losing only in the high hurdles and the 100-yard dash. Hughes led a slam in the 880 and Simon was a double winner with firsts in the 220 and the shotput. Weakened by the absence of some team members during the spring vacation, the Rockets dropped a 76-32 1/4 decision to Howe.

Tech's seemingly bottomless depth caused the Rockets' downfall on April 18. Chrissinger, Downey, Simon, and the two relay teams accounted for Ripple's blue ribbons. Despite the loss of Simon, the Rockets romped over Cathedral, 59 2/3-49 1/3. Stone and Scott placed 1-2 in the low hurdles.

At the Broad Ripple Invitational, Downey captured the lone blue ribbon for the Rockets who settled for fourth place, six points behind Ben Davis. Shortridge won the meet for the third straight year and Washington took second place. Manual closed the dual meet season by defeating Coach Ludlow's men as Ripple took six second places but let the Redskins have too many firsts.

Downey, Scott, and Simon served as the team's co-captains throughout the season. But despite hard work by the entire team, lack of depth prevented the cindermen from being up with the toughest competition.

The reserve team, guided by Coaches Robert Ludlow and Earl Dose, ended its regular season with a 2-5 record. The reserve tracksters were victorious over Pike and Chatard but fell at the hands of Howe, Washington, Manual, and Tech, and Shortridge and North Central in a three-way meet.

The freshmen closed their season with a record of two wins and three losses. The frosh chalked up victories against Cathedral and Pike and were defeated by Manual, Washington, and Howe.

Enthusiasm rides high in intramural programs

by Ken Terfler

Spirited enthusiasm by throngs of participants and spectators contributed to the success of the intramural program sponsored by Mr. Frank Baird.

The well-rounded intramural schedule opened with touch football dominated by Rook's seniors and the juniors of Deuce. The two teams were matched in the play-off with Rook blanking Deuce, 27-0. Senior Jim Kopernak won the tennis tourney to complete fall activities.

In the winter, the Mets won the American basketball league with an unblemished 11-0 record and the freshman Eagles placed first in the National division by compiling a 9-1 slate.

The Roundballers captured the bowling crown with a 17-5 tally. Team captain Mike Alhand rolled the league's high game of 189.

Girls' intramurals consisted of archery, basketball, bowling, volleyball, tennis, and table tennis.

Planning strategy for the next play, Rook takes a thirty-second breather before pushing for another touchdown.

Organization and supervision are jobs of Mr. Frank Baird at intramural bowling in Broad Ripple on Thursday afternoons.

Maneuvering to evade the hands of Mike Stayton, Rick True sinks another basket to lead his senior team to a perfect season.

Every Ripplite feels a certain comradeship with all his fellow pupils. Whether someone is an old acquaintance, is in the same class or "suffers" under the same teacher, or just attends Broad Ripple High School, there is a common feeling of pride and friendship among Ripplites.

Beginning an eventful high school career, members of the class of '64 initiated Ripple's new wing in the fall of 1960. The next year, after losing many friends to the new Arlington High School, Ripplites cheered the football team to its first undefeated season since 1956. As juniors, they watched, unbelieving, as a fired-up basketball team worked its way through the Sectional and Regional to the final game of the Semi-State. Later in the year, under Junior Class officers, Mark Sutton, Nancy Maxwell, Jan Bennett, and Steve Goldsmith, they presented the seniors with a memorable prom, "Moonlight on the Mississippi." Their senior year overflowed with a whirlwind of activities from electing class officers and presenting a spectacular grad dance to competing for scholarships and contemplating future life.

Seniors look past commencement to future goals

Fashion-wise Ripplites Jim Taylor, Sue Ticusan, and Steve Ham display fads of 1964—penny loafers, high boots, madras, suede patches, bulky sweaters, knee socks, white Levi's and hootenannies.

Preparing for participation in the business world, Ripplites form reciprocal relationship with businessmen of near-by shopping centers. Teenagers receive part-time jobs because of their liveliness and ambition. In return, they patronize those businesses which cater to their particular tastes.

A year to remember

Tragedy within national, local, and yearbook circles temporarily halted work several times on the 1964 Riparian yearbook. On November 22, staffers dropped all work despite approaching deadlines and assembled around the radio to listen, disbelieving, to reports of the tragic assassination of President John F. Kennedy. On the local level, several Riparian staffers rushed to help clear crowds and comfort the injured in the Coliseum explosion, which claimed over 70 lives, including those of friends and relatives of Ripplites. Even closer to all concerned with the working end of the yearbook was the death of Mr. Richard Brier, representative for Associates Engraving and Benton Review Publishing Companies. In his 10-year association with the Riparian, Mr. Brier had become an irreplaceable part of its production.

Stepping in to help out where Mr. Brier had assumed duty before, Randy Singer, former Ripplite, accepted the task of taking, developing, and printing opening and academic section pictures, as well as others throughout the book. Special thanks also go to Mr. David McConnell of Benton Review and Mr. Larry Wells of Associates for the many trips they made to Ripple from their respective companies, miles away, to assist staffers after Mr. Brier's death.

Offering journalistic knowledge and sympathetic guidance, Mrs. Ruth Marie Griggs and Miss Charlene Boyle helped the staff through numerous crises.
